Cavco Earns National Recognition for Manufactured and Modular Home Design

Recognized by the Manufactured Housing Institute at the 2026 Congress & Expo for excellence in single-section manufactured and multi-section modular home design

PHOENIX, April 14, 2026 — Cavco Industries, Inc. (Nasdaq: CVCO) announced today that the Company has received two national design awards from the Manufactured Housing Institute (MHI) at the 2026 MHI Congress & Expo in Las Vegas, Nevada.

As one of the nation’s leading providers of homes focused on factory-built and off-site construction, Cavco continues to expand access to high-quality housing through design, innovation and scale. The recognition highlights Cavco’s continued focus on design innovation, product quality and expanding access to modern, affordable housing.

MHI’s annual Excellence in Manufactured Housing Awards recognize companies across the manufactured and modular housing industry for product innovation, creative solutions and leadership. Each year, MHI invites submissions from manufacturers, vendors, retailers, communities and other strategic partners to compete across 18 categories, with more than 80 entries submitted in 2026. The awards highlight organizations that set the standard for serving customers and strengthening communities.

Cavco received recognition in the following categories:

Manufactured Home Design - Single-Section: the Serenity Cabana, a single-section manufactured home featuring a modern single-slope roofline, stunning trapezoidal clerestory windows and soaring lofted ceilings. The striking contemporary design proves that efficient living space can make a bold architectural statement. The home was built by Cavco’s Millersburg, Oregon manufacturing facility.

Modular Home Design Award: the Luxus, a 3,000 sq. ft., 3-section modular home designed to deliver an open living concept in a larger footprint with elegant finishes and details at an affordable price point. The natural flow of the layout supports today’s lifestyles through open gathering zones and optional flex areas for working from home or extended family members. The home was built by Cavco’s Goshen, Indiana manufacturing facility.

“These awards recognize our continued focus on thoughtful design, build quality and innovation,” said Brian Cira, Cavco President, Manufactured Housing. “It reinforces the work our teams do every day to deliver homes that meet evolving customer expectations across both manufactured and modular construction.”

Housing affordability is at a critical point, and many buyers feel priced out of the home market. Cavco homes give buyers more affordable options without compromising quality. By building homes in controlled environments, Cavco is able to reduce waste, improve material use, shorten construction timelines and consistently deliver high-quality, high-value homes. Every efficiency gained in Cavco’s factories supports their mission to provide affordable homeownership for those who dream of owning homes.
